Social Club Give Dancing Party That Was a Great Success--Hall Beautifully Decorated.

The Social Club, composed of ninety-eight of the crew of the armored cruiser North Carolina, covered themselves with glory at Freeman's hall on Friday evening, when they held their second dancing party. They were liberal with their invitations and issued two hundred, which were good for a gentleman and two ladies, so that the hall was filled.

The sailors left nothing undone and all arrangements were perfected before the doors were opened. The hall was handsomely decorated, the committee showing excellent taste in arranging the vast amount of bunting used. The national colors were the principal effect, and these were set off by the hundreds of signal flags. Over the stage were draped two mammoth American flags with the state flag of North Carolina at the intersection, and it was further embellished with palms and ferns from the Hannaford greenhouses. The galleries were completely hidden by bunting of varied hue, and festoons of signal flags were run across the hall meeting in the center. To the left of the stage an improvised drawing room was arranged for the officers of the ship, a large number of

Rev. Walter A. James of the People's Church and Wife Received by Local Ministers and Parish

Clergymen of various denominations participated with the congregation of the People's Baptist church Friday night in the reception to the Rev. Walter A. James, pastor of the church, and his wife. The reception afforded the first coming of Mrs. James, who came to this city with her husband after their marriage in Providence, R. I. Mrs. Martha Allen and Robert Allen stood in the receiving line with the Rev. and Mrs. James. George H. Strahm was head usher, and William T. Patillo, Heywood B. Burton and Fitz A. Williams were ushers.

After the reception speeches were made by the Rev. O. C. Sargent, of Concord state secretary of the Baptist body; the Rev. Myron M. Adams, pastor of the First Advent Christian church; the Rev. Lyle L. Galtier, pastor of the First Methodist church; the Rev. William B. Stanley, pastor of the Middle street Baptist church, and Mrs. Stanley, Mrs. George B. Strahm, Mr. Patillo and Mr. Burton. The church building was decorated with autumn foliage. Refreshments were served.

ship more than fifteen years. During his membership in Osgood lodge he was elevated from the lower grades until he became noble grand of the lodge. In the succeeding years he has occupied the office of secretary. The importance of this office is denoted by the fact that Osgood lodge has approximately 450 members. He is also affiliated with the encampment. At the last grand lodge meeting Mr. Kehoe represented Osgood lodge before the board of appeals on the contention that Osgood lodge should not assume certain debts. The verdict was rendered in favor of the lodge. Mrs. Kehoe became affiliated with Union Rebekah lodge six years ago. She succeeded the various grades in office until she became noble lady. Since retiring from that office she frequently has been at the head of the social features of lodge life.

The membership of Osgood lodge was advanced last night by the initiation of seven candidates to the third degree. Degree Master John H. Yeaton was in charge. After the meeting refreshments were served and an entertainment provided.

PENSION SYSTEM FOR UNCLE SAM'S HELP

Paymaster Whipple Reports Need of New Methods

Washington, Oct. 20.—Tribute to the government employee is written in the annual report of Paymaster General Charles H. Whipple of the army in a plea for an increase of salary and a system of retirement when the employee reaches the age of incapacity. Referring to the statistical increase of the cost of living of 50 per cent during the past fifteen years without a corresponding rise in pay, Gen. Whipple says the increase is asked not as a reward for past services, "but as an actual necessity."

Advocating increased pay and a pension system, the paymaster general continues: "There is no class of employees today who are more deserving of recognition in the matter of an increase of compensation and retirement with reasonable pay than the government clerks."

The salary of the clerks in his office, he says, has not been increased since 1870, in face of a 50 per cent increase in the cost of living.

To attain and maintain an efficiency, now possible under the present law, Gen. Whipple recommends that at least 50 per cent of the paymaster's department be made permanent. This could be obtained, he says, by making the majors and higher grades permanent.

RACE HAS SPIRIT OF LEARNING

Brooker T. Washington Says That Negro is Yearning for Education

Concord, Oct. 20.—The fifty-eighth annual convention of the New Hampshire Teachers' association opened in the Auditorium this morning at 10:30 o'clock with an attendance of over 1000 teachers, representing the whole educational system of the state. Superintendent Harry L. Moore of Wolfboro presided at the opening session, which commenced with devotional exercises led by the Rev. Sydney B. Snow, pastor of the Unitarian church of this city. Charles F. Cook, the principal of the local high school, welcomed the host of delegates to the city in a few chosen words and the response for the association was gracefully made by Principal Marian M. Bisbee of Exeter. Charles J. French was to have welcomed the delegates, but was unable to be present.

The day's session was very interesting, especially the address of Booker T. Washington, which was given at the afternoon session. The noted negro educator held the close attention of his large audience all through his remarkable address, which was interspersed with many humorous stories and anecdotes told in a manner perfect. The subject of his address was "Education and Its Influence in the Solution of the Race Problem."

The first address of the morning was by Dr. A. E. Winslow, editor of the Journal of Education, Boston, Mass., who spoke interestingly on "Modern Educational Problems." The other speaker of the forenoon was Dr. C. H. Judd, director of the School of Education, University of Chicago. The morning session ended at 12:30 o'clock.

The afternoon session of the convention opened at 2 o'clock with each seat in the Auditorium occupied. President Moore introduced as the first speaker of the afternoon Dr. C. H. Judd, who took as the topic of his really educational address, "Practical and Methodical Education." Dr. Judd stated that boys and girls are leaving school under this demand in modern life for a practical education and the speaker introduced statistics to show the truth of his assertion.

The speaker was of the opinion that compulsory education did not mean education of an elementary sort. It ought to mean a complete elementary education, but it does not therefore it does answer the purpose for which the legislation was passed. The work and use of trades schools was discussed by Dr. Judd. "Theory is a broad, general view of a situation. Do not go back to the mere educational system; boys should not be mere workers in the world's great workshop, but thinkers in society. The ability to adopt oneself to any situation is what is needed. A training of intelligence is absolutely necessary. A combination of theory and practice, which will make boys and girls thinkers in society is the solution of a difficult problem."

A brief recess was declared following which the convention listened to the famous educator, Dr. Booker T. Washington, president of Tuskegee institute Tuskegee, Ala. Dr. Washington was introduced by Mr. Moore as a man of another race whose work in the uplift of his people is an inspiration to all mankind.

In opening his address the noted educational leader stated that he gets a little fear in addressing his Concord audience, as already several had spoken to him and told him that they had heard him speak in New Hampshire before. He was not sure whether or not he had given the present address before any of his audience or not. In a humorous manner Mr. Washington told several stories which illustrated his opening points perfectly.

He stated that he represented a new race with its future before it rather than behind it. He had seen several which he considered had their futures behind them.

"It is an interesting thing," he said "to have a small part in the shaping of the education of ten millions of people, and with all the weaknesses and disadvantages of the black race it has no long past history to hurt its future development."

Mr. Washington told his hearers that after leaving school he went and lived with the negroes in the black belt of Alabama and studied their conditions thoroughly in order to ascertain the things which ought to be taught at Tuskegee. His investigations showed him that it was very rarely that a black man was found in the south who did not have a consuming desire for education. They wanted education in order that they might escape work with their hands and, continued the speaker, "I don't know whether you find that up this way or not."

When the parents heard that the institution was to teach "farming, not agriculture, and cooking, not domestic art," then came decided objections. Mr. Washington said delegations came to him at Tuskegee and complained about teaching children to work and then the speaker in a wonderful humorous manner, explained the difference between "being worked" and "working."

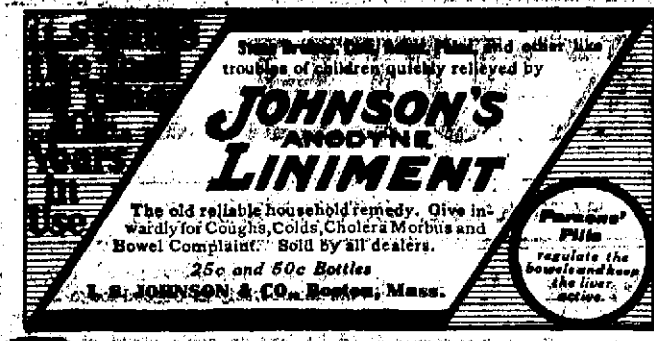

The greatest sign of progress in the wonderful change which has come over these thousands of students coming out of the institutions of the south to teach the black race is the difference between being worked and working. He told of the barbers now in progress in his school at Tuskegee and of the different work taught by the various groups of students. "All of the hundred buildings upon the grounds at Tuskegee with the exception of four have been erected by the students of the institution. The problems given the students are taken from the actual work done in the laundries and brick yards of the school. The speaker told of the abolition of the old style of commencement exercises and the substitution thereof of something entirely new. Instead of the old studied delivery of essays on such subjects as "After the Alps," "The Italy" the students gave to the four or five thousand people present each year at commencement such essays as "How I Planted and Cultivated an Acre of Turnips." That kind of a commencement has two advantages. "The students know what he is talking about and second, the audience knows what the student is talking about."

Some of the students are now founding public school systems of education in the rural districts of the south and this, in the opinion of the lecturer is the most important work being done by the graduates of the institute. The negro race, with all of its deficiencies, wants to rise and in the rural districts of the south the negroes work. They work, but they do not know how to utilize the fruit of their labor. In one cabin in the south the speaker found one fork and a $60 organ. In another a $15 clock while the rest of the furniture in the cabin was not worth that amount.

MOVING PICTURES

The Censorship

Practically every moving picture film exhibited in the United States is approved by the National Board of Censorship of Motion Pictures. This board is a voluntary organization, and the films are submitted to it up on the voluntary action of the manufacturers.

The unanimous action of the film-makers in consenting to the establishment and maintenance of this censorship is unique in the history of the theatrical and amusement business. That the censorship is not a merely perfunctory affair is attested by the fact that last year the Board of Censors rejected no less than 2,000,000 feet of original negatives, all of which was destroyed, at an actual loss to the manufacturers of $200,000. This enormous sum represented what actually had been spent in preparing the film negatives, and did not take into account any possible future profit that might have been made if the films had been permitted to go into the regular channels of the trade.

The Board of Censorship, although organized originally for service in New York City, rapidly extended its control, through the cooperation of the manufacturers until it was justified in assuming the title "National." At the head of the board is a General Committee, consisting of one representative from each of ten social service organizations in New York, such as the Federation of Women's Clubs, the Y. M. C. A., the Charity Organization Society and the People's Institute. Then there are nine members at large, appointed from the ranks of well known sociologists. Ordinary details of business fall under the control of an Executive Committee of three of the members of the general committee, of which the Rev. Dr. George William Knox of Union Theological Seminary, is chairman.

The work of the general committee is supplemented by that of the Advisory Committee, which consists of 55 members, including such men as Dr. Lyman Abbott, Dr. Felix Adler, Andrew Carnegie, Samuel Gompers, Bishop David Greer, Jacob Dolis, and Dr. Albert Shaw.

The actual work of censoring pictures, in itself an onerous task, is delegated to a committee of 25, 10 men and 15 women, recruited from the ranks of social workers of New York city. This committee on censoring, it is hardly necessary to say, serves without pay. The only paid officers of the board are three office secretaries, and the total expenses of the board amount to less than $6,000 a year, including rent, printing, and other office expenses. These expenses are met by voluntary subscriptions collected by and through the People's Institute. As a matter of fact, the greater part of the funds contributed comes from moving picture men, manufacturers, middlemen and exhibitors.

Although the National Board of Censorship is not yet three years old, it now censors and controls the output of all of the moving picture films destined to be distributed to exhibitors in the ordinary channels of the moving picture trade. Two classes of pictures do not come within the power of the board. The first are films known to the trade as "special releases." These may be placed on the market by syndicates or individuals with whom the board has not made censoring arrangements. Such companies may be formed outside the regular ranks of the motion picture manufacturers or may represent a combination of manufacturers or the purpose of marketing some special picture at an advanced price.

In the 18 months preceding the last annual meeting of the general committee, only three such special releases had been made. Two of these were pictures of prize fights and one was the famous picture of Roosevelt in Africa. Of course the Roosevelt pictures were not objectionable, and the prize fighting pictures were objectionable only on the ground of opposition to prize fighting itself. It happened that neither of these prize fighting pictures were profitable, since they were prohibited by the local authorities in many cities. Other "special releases" which are not censored are privately owned travel pictures such as are used by travel lecturers, Holmes, Edmunds, Howe and others.

The other class of pictures which do not come under the censorship are pictures produced and circulated secretly and criminally. It is unquestionably a fact that some such pictures, frankly immoral have been produced and exhibited surreptitiously. Of course such pictures are never shown in regularly licensed moving picture theatres, and are shown only before people who know that the local authorities will interfere if the existence of the exhibition becomes publicly known.

Three or four years ago general public objection to moving picture shows on account of the low moral tone of the pictures exhibited became so general as to greatly perturb the far seeing men of the business. Some individual motion picture men resented criticism and protested against interference on the ground that the motion pictures were at least as high moral tone as the exhibitions in the regular theatres. But the majority of the men in the business were wise enough to recognize that they were catering to a vastly larger number of people than the regular theatres, and that a much greater percentage of their patrons were children.

Early in 1909 a committee appointed by the Association of Motion Picture Exhibitors of New York City called on the People's Institute, a sociological organization, for advice regarding the disturbed condition of the business and the growing public hostility to motion pictures. As a result of this action the Board of Censorship was organized and the Exhibitors' Association agreed to abide by the decisions of the censors. As it was manifestly impracticable for the censoring committee to inspect all the pictures in the more than 400 moving picture theatres of New York City, the board called upon the manufacturers, offered to inspect their product before it was placed on the market and to notify them of any objectionable pictures, so that the manufacturers would not suffer in reputation through trying to place in a theater a picture which, being condemned by the censors, would be refused by the exhibitors. By June of 1909 so many of the manufacturers had consented to this agreement that 70 per cent of all the motion pictures produced were submitted to the censors; by December of that year the board was in control of practically all regularly released films. As New York is the central and controlling film market, the movement originated for the benefit of New York city automatically extended itself to the entire United States.

Down until the last report of the board, made in June, the censors had examined more than 5,200 films. Of these 178 were condemned, some of them to be destroyed and others to be altered so as to remove the objectionable features. From these 178 adverse decisions, 12 appeals were taken from the censor to the General Committee. The General Committee, acting on these appeals, altered six pictures and condemned the other six to be destroyed.

The board has been severely criticized by persons in the business for its stringency, and it has been even more severely condemned by persons on the outside for its leniency. The attitude of the Board of Censorship is explained in the following quotation from an official doctrine which outlines the standards of the board: "The ideals and practical method of the Board of Censorship may be summed up in a few words. Primarily, motion pictures are a form of dramatic art, and, as such, they deal with real life and the problems of real life, among these problems are moral problems and involving conduct which in real life would be criminal. The drama of all ages has dealt with real life and its serious moral problems, and the Board of Censorship recognizes that moving pictures are essentially a form of drama. But the Censoring Committee insists that there shall be no sensationalism and no representation of crime except with the object of conveying a moral lesson. 'Crime for crime's sake' is condemned. Certain socially forbidden themes, are, of course, proscribed, and any leaning toward over-sensationalism is discouraged. But for the extreme demand which is sometimes made, namely, that 'all pictures of crime or violence be forbidden,' the board is compelled to point out that such a standard would prohibit practically all of Shakespeare and other classics, even some of the best Biblical motion pictures that have been made, and would likewise make impossible such historical pictures as the Life of Washington."

"Nor is it possible to confine motion pictures to those themes which are entirely proper to discuss in the presence of children. Many legitimate themes of literature, drama, and general interest are looked upon as too for adults which cannot be gone into exhaustively with children. It is unlikely that many children either understand or take an interest in the complex problems of social life which the theater and, likewise, the motion picture sometimes makes use of. Large as is the number of children who attend motion picture shows, more than two-thirds of the total audience is adult. Much that the adult receives and can heartily digest simply goes over the heads of children, and if children are defended from the exalted immoral lesson and from excessive scenes of horror and violence much, at least, has been accomplished. In any case, the child is subject both to his parents and to the local laws which, in many cases, exclude unaccompanied children from motion picture shows."

STRATHAM.

Last Tuesday the Woman's Christian Temperance union met in the vestry of the Congregational church for an open session, with the president, Mrs. Jewell, in charge. The meeting was opened by singing the white ribbon rally song with Mrs. Vinal at the organ. Prayer was offered by Mrs. John W. Lane. The minutes of the September meeting were read by the secretary and selections from state minutes and the report of Mercy home were read by Mrs. Gilbert Thompson, showing when the home was organized, how it received its name and what it is doing for the betterment of humanity. Its object is to shelter and care for young girls, who are neglected, abused or friendless, and those whose friends cannot control them properly, and who need to be removed from bad surroundings. The home is non-sectarian and is partially supported by the laundry, which was first introduced to furnish occupation for the girls, as well as for its financial aid. Its first object is to develop Christian character, and to give such training in household matters as shall fit the girls for self-sustaining lives. It is dependent to some extent each year upon donations to meet current expenses, and we bespeak the continued assistance of our friends in carrying on this effort for the saving of young girls. Twenty years have passed since the work of Mercy home was inaugurated to meet what its founders recognized as a necessity, and of the 229 girls who have been admitted in the 20 years the proportion of those who have not done well is small, and there is great cause for gratitude to God for his loving care and guidance for here most of these girls received their first idea of the possibilities for good that their lives held. Rev. H. V. Vinal was present and gave a few helpful remarks. The meeting closed with singing "Blest be the tie that binds," and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Vinal.

The ladies of the Christian church are working for their annual harvest supper, which they will give Thursday evening, November 2. The entertainment will be given by a company from Kensington, who will present the drama, "The Country school Master." Further mention will be made later.

"A Modern Marriage," in which Cyril Scott started out to star, did not measure up to expectations.

"It is a good sign that 'Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm' continues popular and that a second company has been organized for this season.

Frank Keenan, report has it, has left the cast of "A Million," and will be replaced by T. Dabiel Frawley. Mr. Keenan will return to vaudeville. Announcement has been made in London that David Belasco has obtained the American rights to "The Spider's Web," a play by Austin Strong.

Twenty-five years ago Forbes Robertson was a member of Mary Anderson's company and in that capacity was making a tour of the United States.

Weedon Grossmith's venture with "Baby Mine" on the other side of the Atlantic has attained to 250 performances, and the play is as popular as ever.

Lawsuits in England against Jack Johnson have been called off upon his agreeing to appear in the houses of the Variety Theatres Controlling company.

A big production will be made shortly of James Montgomery's newspaper play, "Jimmie, Jr.," which has been given a successful tryout in Los Angeles recently.

Elizabeth Arden, a Boston girl with a remarkable voice, is to sing the leading feminine role in "The Girl of the Golden West" when it is produced at the Boston Opera house.

Although there is nothing sensational in his life history, Harry Lauder has Gaby Deslys beaten a block from the box office point of view.

and from every other, probably. Edward Peple, the author of "Prince Olaf" and "The Littlest Rebel," has just finished another play called "The Call of the Cricket," in which Beulah Poynter will star in the near future.

"Nancy Hanks," the popular play by Frank Tannehill, Jr. which was produced a number of years ago with Marie Jansen, Clayton White and Ignacio Martinetti in the cast, is soon to be revived.

The New York Hippodrome News, a clever advertising circular in the form of a yellow newspaper, has come to our desk again and alluringly sets forth the attractions at the great Metropolitan amusement house.

Harry C. Whittemore, pianist, announces a recital in Joliet hall, Manchester, this evening assisted by Alwin Schroeder, solo cellist of the Boston Symphony orchestra, Lambert Murphy, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera company, and Miss Tullie Ashley, accompanist.

The first appearance of Harry Lauder in New York was delayed by the late arrival of his steamer and a great audience waited until one o'clock in the morning, the theatre management, in the meantime, putting on any and every act obtainable. Over 20 artists appeared on the stage.

Modest Marie. "In November, 1875," writes Marie Bashkirtseff, "the great day of the opera, I was nervous all day. I wore a white muslin jupe (whatsoever that may be) with a wide frill at the bottom; corsage Marie Stuart and culture in harmony with the gown. A very beautiful affair. Every one admired me. About the middle of the performance the feeling swept over me that I was beautiful to distraction. At the close I made my way out between two lines of gentlemen who stare themselves blind, and their verdict is not an unfavorable one. One feels that. Coming home, I looked at myself in the glass. I was like a queen, like a portrait that had stepped out of its frame. What a misfortune it is that instead of these pen scratches I cannot draw my portrait as I was then—my marvellous complexion, my golden hair, my eyes black like the night, my mouth, my fleur!"

TWELVE MEN LOSE LIFE

New Jersey Miners are Caught 300 Feet Below Surface

Hibernia, N. J., Oct. 20—Twelve men were drowned here when a blast destroyed a partition between two shafts in the iron mines of the Wharton Steel company, and let a great quantity of water, accumulated in an old shaft, flood the gallery where the men were at work. All the victims are foreigners except David Slaght, foreman of the gang, who lost his life in trying to aid his men.

The accident occurred in a shaft where sixty men were at work. Between this shaft and an abandoned one was a partition of logs. A blast weakened this barrier so that it gave way before the subterranean lake in the adjoining gallery.

In less than a minute the water was over the miners' heads and they were obliged to swim in the darkness toward the opening leading to a higher level. The place was about 300 feet below the surface. Those who lost their lives were unable to swim, or were pushed down by the crowd struggling like drowning rats while the water rapidly gained upon them.

Slaght, the foreman, was in a position of safety when the deluge came but he rushed into the submerged shaft to assist the drowning men and was caught there with the other victims.

It will be probably be some time before the bodies are recovered from the shaft, as it is entirely full of water which must be pumped out before the victims can be reached. The extent of the disaster was learned after the survivors reached the surface and the roll was called.

Insures You for Months Against a Sick Headache, Biliousness, Constipation or a Bad Stomach

Put aside—just once—the Salts, Cathartic Pills, Castor Oil or purgative waters which merely force a passage through the bowels but do not thoroughly cleanse, freshen and purify these drainage or alimentary organs, and have no effect whatever upon the liver and stomach.

A Cascaret tonight will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken and cost only 10 cents a box from your druggist. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have Headache, Biliousness, coated tongue, Indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipated bowels. Cascarets belong in every household. Children just love to take them.

NEWINGTON.

Philip Bennett of Portsmouth is passing a few days with his aunt, Mrs. William Forbes.

The many friends of Gina Frink are pleased to learn that he has recovered from his illness and is now able to be about.

The young people gave a dance in the Town Hall on Friday evening. Quite a number of persons from Portsmouth were present and an enjoyable time was passed by all.

The harvesting of crops still continues. The farmers who planted for very large crops, have been successful in raising a fair crop, if not as much as they expected, while those who planted on a smaller scale have a slim crop. Mr. Darius Frink has placed in his corn-house five hundred bushels of corn on the ear.

The Piscataqua Granite held its regular meeting on Tuesday evening. Miss Mary Pickering was calling on friends in Portsmouth on Sunday.

Mrs. Cyrus Frink was calling on relatives in Portsmouth on Friday.

Mrs. Justin Rand has returned home from her visit to Winchester, Mass., and vicinity.

John Hoyt, who has been in Cambridge, Mass., for a few weeks, is now at home.

The City Clerks' Association of Massachusetts are today preparing a fight for changes in the marriage laws at their meeting in Boston. The law, the same as in this state, requires a notice of five days and the clerks claim that while it checks the acts of runaway victims of Cupid's arrow from other states, it works bad to lifelong residents who desire to be blighted up. In case a couple who have set the date and sent out invitations in their home town should forget the law, (as many have done), one can picture the mixup in the failure to give the necessary five days notice. Once the same is held up the bride of today wants no warned over weddings and the young groom, who has any intentions of taking a life-partner will do well to remember the law and have everything in shipshape on the day the wedding bells are due to ring.

A Puzzling Applicant.
When newly Mrs. Caderetto required a letter of introduction to the benevolent association Jules Dupont, proud of his ability to express himself in English, obligingly helped her out. Imagine the bewilderment of the secretary when a large, robust lady in search of work presented what well meaning Jules had written:

"This is Miss Caderetto, that I induce, wherewith to everybody. This lady has been sick for a long time and is still in bed. She has five children, all little and partly dead, and is in very poor condition; as she has no money. Her husband went away two years ago and has not never been heard of since. This man has rheumatism, is a cripple and cannot help himself. This lady is his brother's wife. Help her and she will be very comfortable."

As the sick abed lady could speak no English, she was unable to explain why she looked so well, but the secretary made her "very comfortable" with steady employment in a laundry. —Youth's Companion.

An Eye For Lines.
"The last time I was here I saw that same woman," said the man who was waiting for his eyeglasses to be adjusted. The optician looked across the room to a little woman in faded black.

"Yes," he said, "and if you should be here three months from today you would see her again. She comes every three months. She is a palmer. Nobody gives closer attention to the eyes than the professional palmer. Most of them wear glasses, and they visit an optician regularly. With every change in their eyes their glasses are changed. They have to do that to keep track of all the fine lines in their clients' hands."

"They have keen eyes themselves, those people who patronize palmists, and are apt to pick out any number of little struggling lines and ask what they mean. If the palmer can't see the lines herself she is likely to get into trouble." —New York Times.

DO OUR SCHOOL CHILDREN STUDY TOO MUCH AT HOME

That the question of whether a child should confine its study period to the school hours appears to be a live issue in Scotland as well as in many places in this country. A reader of The Herald has called attention to the following article in the Guide, published at Arbroath, Scotland. It is interesting and shows the feeling there:

"I was very glad to see a letter from 'One Harassed Mother' in last week's 'Guide' about too many home lessons. I can thoroughly sympathize with your correspondent and bear out all she says. I have children at the High school, and I think they are given far too much to do at night. They are, of course, anxious to have their lessons well learned so that they may not be considered backward, or be regarded by other children as dullards, but I am sure that when I was at school we were not called upon to do so much home work. We were taught in school what we had to learn, and had not to keep on worrying our parents to tell us if this or that were right or wrong.

"Neither my husband nor myself like to show to our children our ignorance—or forgetfulness—of many things that are taught at school, and we do our best to 'help' but I think it is a burden that ought not to be laid upon us when teachers are so well paid to instruct our children, and to give them the education they require. My husband has to work hard during the day—a good deal harder than the teachers, I should say—and it is not right that either he or I should have to be pestered with questions about things which it is the province of the teacher to make clear during school hours.

"A few home lessons, in reason, we do not mind; but at present we are experiencing what it is to have too much of what, in its place, may be a good thing, and we hope there will be an alleviation.—Yours, &c."

Another article, on the same line, of thought is also submitted from the same Scotland paper.

"Lady Griselda Cheape and Home Lessons. Writing on the subject of home lessons Lady Griselda Cheape, who is to perform the second day's opening ceremony in connection with the Ladyloan Parish Church manse bazaar in Arbroath today, says:—It is with regret that we see strikes all over the country, and most of all the children's strikes—they who should follow Christ's example and be obedient to their parents. But on one point I am glad they have a grievance—that is home lessons. I spoke against them in my years ago in Edinburgh at a busy conference. Men are demanding intelligent well informed and discreet help to work eight hours, and little as may be. It is a fundamental prin-children when they are growing should certainly not do more than five hours a day in our Board schools. Education, alas! by too many is thought to be book learning only. Instead of which it is only a part. To draw out what is best in the child is real education, and let them come home with the idea of trying to help father and mother would make far better men and women of them. It is the home life we need to teach all men and women the great lesson of give and take in life. No amount of book learning will do that, but the poor little tired brains straining over their lessons is slavery, and should be abolished. If there are too many subjects taught in school, sweep them out and retain Scripture, the three R's, domestic economy, geography and history. That is quite enough for a child to learn thoroughly up to 14 years of age."

There is a good deal of sound sense to the above and it will hit many of our citizens as true that our school system is far from perfect. Two sessions a day has not been improved upon.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES

Crawford Notch.
The documentary error which suspends the purchase by the State of New Hampshire of Crawford Notch is deplorable. The Supreme Court was required to rule on an unusual though not a unique technicality and very likely did not relish the duty. It seems that the bill to provide for the purchase as engrossed did not carry a provision the Legislature believed it had enacted. An appropriation of one hundred thousand dollars was carried as the measure came from committee but, because of a feeling that the undertaking should not be threatened by an upset price, an amendment was adopted leaving the amount to be expended to the discretion of the Governor. The clerk of the House, which first passed the bill, wrote the amendment on the jacket of the document, and in that form it went to the Senate for concurrence. So the bill proceeded through the engrossing stage to the Governor for his signature. That the amendment was not incorporated in the bill, but simply was drafted, escaped attention all along the line. The error, obviously, is attributable to the House clerk.

The bill as sent to the Senate was not the bill the House passed. Somebody in the Senate might have caught the error, but nobody did. The engrossing clerk is not supposed to be a critic of the terms of legislation; he copies the face of the bill. The more surprising thing is, perhaps, that the Governor did not note the omission since, although he would have no reason to scrutinize the engrossment of a bill with the terms of which he was perfectly familiar, he might naturally have done so in this instance because of his profound interest in the legislation. It was by this time the closing day of the session, however, so perhaps the correction could not have been made had the Governor noted the slip. It would be premature to presume that Crawford Notch will be saved to the State at the next opportunity. The Legislature does not meet again until 1913. In the interval, anyhow, the Notch will be open to the private spoiler.

All New England will share the disappointment of the people of New Hampshire at what has happened. There is said to be a possibility that the Notch may be acquired by right of eminent domain. That suggestion must have some other legislation behind it than this futile purchase bill which the Court declare was not enacted in respect of any of its provisions. The Crawford Notch reservation has been one of the important items in the policy of conservation as promoted by progressive agencies in that State. New Hampshire was stirred to recover its resources by the criticism passed upon it in the course of the debate of the Appalachian bill in Congress. Governor Bass was a leader in the movement to arouse public spirit. To his activities on the forestry commission, indeed, he traces the beginning of the career that now finds him in the executive chair. It required hard work to induce the Legislature to save Crawford Notch from the loggers and it may turn out that the work will have to be done all over again with a new Legislature. The suggestion of a special session of the present body of lawmakers seems not yet to have been offered.—Providence Journal.

Fitness for Jury Service.

Ere the jury for the trial of the McNamaras at Los Angeles is empaneled the country bids fair to be aghast at the serious consideration of the problem that have been increased in gravity during the past decade. All the higher agencies of society are busy creating an electorate able to work eight hours, and little as may be. It is a fundamental prin-

Gleanings From Files of Portsmouth Chronicle

The workmen at our navy yard received one payment, chiefly in demand Treasury notes, on Monday evening. Another payment is already due, and a third becomes due on Thursday next. We understand that it is contemplated to pay both of these during the present week.

Cheap Excursion to Concord.—An extra train will leave Portsmouth for Concord on Wednesday morning, Oct. 23, at 8 o'clock returning from Concord at 4. Fare from Portsmouth and back will be only one dollar. From Stratham, 90 cents, and from Newmarket Junction, 15 cents; children under 12, half price. This will be an excellent opportunity to visit the public places at Concord, and to visit the camp of the 74th regiment, which will leave the next day for the seat of war. Tickets may be had in the cars along the route.

Old Kittery Point Awake.—Mrs. Jane Hill of Kittery Point, has contributed the first pair of yarn stockings for the troops, thus taking the lead among her townswomen in the patriotic work, that each man leave at the yard $1 every pay day, making $3,000 a month, to buy blankets and hospital stores. Glory to the man whose name shall lead the list. Where is our Rye in her country's cause?

The November Woman's Home Companion.
The November Woman's Home Companion contains an article by President Taft of interest and importance to every woman. It is an appeal to the women of our country, to help the president in his efforts to get the senate to assent to the arbitration treaties, which, if signed, will go a long way toward abolishing war. It would be a great achievement, and the president believes that women can help bring it to pass.

Contrast with methods of getting juries in Great Britain and her colonies. The American method seems scandalously prolonged, expensive and inefficient, unfair to the commonwealth that tolerates it and to taxpayers that pay the bills. It is not to be parties who abide by its decision. The ideal juror is a man whose interest as a citizen has led him to inform himself as fully as possible as to what has happened and to come to some tentative conclusion awaiting formal presentation of evidence, holding himself in honor bound to give a final judgment in the light of testimony carefully weighed. The juror that is too often permitted to take a place in the box is illiterate, weak, uninformed as to contemporary events, lacking in capacity to deal adequately with the conflicting statements of witnesses, and an easy mark for a specious sentimental criminal lawyer.

Nor is this all that cries out for reform in the methods of jury selection today. Candidates are challenged or passed, as never formerly, because of their classes affiliations, the amount of their property, their ignorance or their knowledge of law, their known or suspected close or remote relations with capital or labor. Here as so often to be noted in these times, the system needs men of principle if it is to maintain its proverbial justice and efficacy.—Christian Science Monitor.

LITERARY NOTES

Ungastronomic America.
Henry T. Finck, musical critic of the New York Evening Post, who for many years has made a study of the subject of food and cooking, has written a series of articles on "Ungastronomic America," taking as his text Dr. Harvey W. Wiley's statement that "there is no country in the world where food is so plentiful and no country in the world where it is so badly cooked as right here in the United States." The first of these articles, in the November Century, will present a practical theory of wholesome eating, advocating, with the reasons therefor, the use of sweet instead of salt butter, the doing away of cold storage fowl the preference of hams that are really smoked, etc., etc.

Which is the More Foolish?

Men write more than women, and therefore there are more jokes produced at the expense of women than at the expense of men. A good many of these jokes deal with slavery to dress. We should be glad to know, however, whether severity to fashion is carried any further, in anything that women do, than it is carried by men in regard to straw hats. Take the town of New York, for example. Even if it happens to be boiling hot, as it often is, after September 15, as a man is compelled to drop his comely portable light straw and probably put on a heavy and stiff black object, un-condemned by the Pennsylvania authorities as 'varnish.' It is charged also that the coloring in many of the synthetic Easter goods is due to iron rather than to chocolate. Two-thirds of the country's production of these goods come from Pennsylvania.

HAMPTON.

Mrs. H. G. Lane has attended the state W. C. T. U. convention at Gloucester this week as delegate from Hampton union, also a trustees' meeting of Mercy Home, of which Mrs. Lane is a member.

Hampton abounded in harvest suppers this week. The Ladies' Aid of the Congregational church held a very successful one on Tuesday evening, realizing $20. The Methodist ladies held one on Wednesday, which must have been a success. The supper was delicious. The Baptist ladies held theirs on Friday evening. Hampton is noted for its good cooks.

At the Woman's Relief corps' on Wednesday two new names were read for membership. The corps is a very interesting society and has a fine membership. S. V. Mrs. A. L. Ross was kept at home by illness this week.

Miss Josephine M. Joplin and Miss Adeline C. Marston are staying at the Joplin cottage at the beach. They are fortunate in having their friend, Mrs. A. K. Church, as chaperon. Mrs. Joplin, Miss E. P. Philbrick and Mr. Church are among others that have been entertained there.

The friends of Miss E. B. Norris are glad to hear that she is gaining rapidly after her stay in the hospital. Miss Norris returned from Boston Saturday.

Mrs. Alice Sanborn is having a bad time with her throat. This is the second attack.

Mrs. John W. Nutter, of Chelsea, and Mrs. John W. York, of Kensington, were in town on Wednesday calling on friends.

Mrs. Annie D. C. Hawkins has been a visitor at Mrs. E. D. Berry's, returning to Vermont the last of the week.

Papers have been received stating that Prof. Edward C. Page, of Illinois, who has been a recent visitor to the Page homestead in Hampton, has been elected to the important position of delegate to the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church to be held in Minneapolis next May. There were six districts represented at the conference for the election of a delegate, among them Chicago south and west. Mr. Page was elected on the second ballot. The papers of that section speak of the delegate chosen as a true Christian gentleman of irreproachable life and a loyal Methodist. His educational work in the state being connected with the normal school so many years as teacher of history, he has become well known as a keen observer and careful leader of men and public affairs and is well qualified to fill so important a position as delegate to the general conference.

Leasing the Coal Lands.

Secretary of the Interior Walter L. Fisher recently returned from a visit to British Columbia and Alaska and announced himself an advocate of leasing the government coal lands. He found in British Columbia a law on the subject that he would make the working model for a law covering the Alaskan situation. Of this law he said that "it retains the land in the hands of the government, it affords a permanent return and prevents the exhaustion of the land in a few years, but, most important of all, it prevents the hoarding of the land and the subsequent underdevelopment by capitalists."

Secretary Fisher also announced that President Taft approved his views on the Alaskan situation generally, which would imply that the president favored the leasing of the coal lands. If this is correct it promises a way out of at least a part of the Alaskan muddle. There are many good points about the plan, and it will probably be approved by both sides in the controversy, or, rather, will be approved by all except those capitalists who wish to grab the rich coal resources of Alaska. The only pit is that this proposition was not put forward before the Cunningham claims were filed. Had it been a large amount of scandal might have been avoided. But it is not yet too late. Only a part of the lands are gone. By prompt and vigorous action these can still be preserved to the American people.

A Cincinnati divine says, "There is no God in Wall street." On the contrary, Wall street has a god and worships most devoutly at his shrine. The only difference between the faith of that thoroughfare and that of the rest of the world is one of names. Most people refer to their deity as Jehovah. Wall street's god is called Mammon.

MEN VIEWING 16 COFFINS ARE CALLED BIASED
State Claims They Could Not Give Impartial Decision in McNamara Case—Five Were Excused Yesterday

Los Angeles, Oct. 20.—Out of 11 taleymen who sat in the jury box at the McNamara murder trial at the opening of court today, only six were left when court adjourned until Monday. But of these six it is considered more than possible that two or perhaps three will find themselves on the jury as it is sworn in.

Those locked up tonight after having been passed for cause by both sides were Seaborn Manning rancher P. D. Green, orange grower, Robert P. Bain, carpenter.

It is possible that all these will become members of the jury, no animus against any of them on either side being apparent tonight.

A. R. McIntosh, challenged by the state because of his opinion to inflict death penalty on circumstantial evidence, will be questioned by the court before he is held or excused.

George W. McKee, who says he is firmly convinced that the Los Angeles Times was blown up by dynamite was under interrogation by the court at the close of today's session. He is not wanted by counsel for the defense, who assert that James H. McNamara, their client, could not have dynamited the building and caused the death of Charles J. Hagerly, for which he is being tried because the building was blown up by gas.

They therefore challenge McKee, and are awaiting a ruling by Judge Bordwell. McKee says he has no opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant.

A. C. Robinson, after being challenged because of his opinion to conviction on circumstantial evidence was held by the court, the challenge being disallowed for the time.

F. W. Adams Ernest P. Decker, E. J. Howe, Otto A. Jesson and H. Y. Quackenbush were all excused upon challenges for indirect bias. This is the closest the state could come under the California statute to formal challenges, because each man said he would not inflict the death penalty upon circumstantial evidence, and Judge Bordwell's efforts to learn and if this to reveal that it was.

What any one who attended the funeral of the Times victims, where 16 coffins lay across the stage of a local theatre, and heard the oration made on that occasion by the Rev. John P. (Bob) Burdette, pastor emeritus of the Temple Baptist church cannot be an impartial juror, was the position taken today by counsel for the defense. It is held to be unique.

It was announced that where it can be learned that a taleymen sat through the afternoon where women after women fainted under stress of emotions induced by the grim scenes and by the eloquence of the speakers that taleymen will be challenged for cause.

Whether the Rev. Mr. Burdette will be summoned into court to refresh the memory of these men was not stated.

Everybody invited to all services at this house of worship.

Catholic services as usual at Grange hall on Sunday, with Sunday school following.

Edward E. Shapleigh, Jr., of the New Hampshire college at Durham, is at home to pass the week end.

Services at the Second Christian church tomorrow will be in the following order: Preaching at 10:30 a. m. by a student from the Harvard Divinity school, who comes here as a candidate. Sunday school at 12. Merwin G. Ford superintendent. Christian Endeavor meeting at 6; leader, Mrs. Edgar Burnham; topic, "Lessons in Love." Learned from "Things." Preaching service at 7:00. Special music by the church soloists at both morning and evening meetings. Mid-week prayer meeting in the vestry on Tuesday evening. Cordial welcome given to all. Seats free.

On Sunday, October 29, it is expected that Rev. John C. Dutton will supply the pulpit at the Second Christian church, instead of tomorrow as was stated in this column earlier in the week.

Mrs. Emily Morse is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Donnell, for a while.

Mrs. Sylvester Hanscom of Rogers road still continues in poor health.

Miss Rounds of Augusta, is in town for a few days, working in the interest of the Children's Home in that city. She is stopping with Mrs. Margaret Root.

Mrs. Edgar Burnham of Woodbury avenue is slowly improving from her recent fall, and is now able to go out.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Wendell of Dover were guests of Mrs. Helen A. Johnson of Love lane on Thursday.

Mrs. Martha Walker is visiting her son, Hylon G. Walker of Kittery Junction.

Miss Frances Gilson of the Intervale was the guests of relatives in New Castle one day this week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Green of Lovell left Friday for Virginia to visit their son, Cecil Greene. They will be away about three weeks.

The entertainment scheduled to be held in Wentworth hall on Thursday evening last by the Adams Mack Co. did not materialize for some reason.

The repairing of the sidewalk at the corner along the Wentworth block causes much inconvenience in more ways than one, but when the work is all completed the new smooth walk will more than repay us for the extra time and steps taken while the repairing was being done.

Local baseball fans are anxiously awaiting the results of the games still to be played in the world series.

Leland L. Riley of Kittery Junction will soon leave for California, where he will pass the winter with a relative.

Jesse L. Philbrick has just received a copy of "The Young Crusader," from Miss Anna A. The copy contains a picture of Miss Gordon which is greatly prized by Master Philbrick.

Miss Lillian Plimpton will be the soloist at the vespers service at the Second Methodist church on Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The U. S. Submarine Stergum, conveyed by the tug Tasco, and lighter Salvor, owned by the Scott Wrecking company, of New London, Conn., left port early Friday morning for Rockland, Me. The sea was still very rough and when last seen the little submarine seemed to be fully living up to her name. No other craft arrived or departed, and for the third day, dredging operations in Pepperell's Cove were suspended owing to heavy sea outside.

The funeral of Mrs. Martha Collins will take place at the Baptist church at 2 o'clock, on Sunday. In the death of Mrs. Collins, Kittery Point loses one of its oldest and most highly esteemed inhabitants.

It is safe to assert that not even in the days of the early settlers occurred a more rollicking and thoroughly enjoyable "hustling party" than that which assembled on Friday night at the farm of Daniel O. Seawards. Bountiful refreshments were served to the nearly three hundred persons gathered upon this and adjacent farms, and it was well into the small hours of the morning before festivities were brought to a close. Every known vehicle from a hay-rack to a carryall was brought into requisition in transporting the hilarious crowd to and from the hustling, while will pass into history as one of the most successful was held on the old town Kittery.

Loans Without Interest.

In the city of Barcelona, Spain, there is a peculiar pawnbroking establishment bearing the dainty name of "Our Lady of Hope," where loans are made without interest to necessitous persons on the deposit of any articles in pledge. Two-thirds of the value of the deposit is at once advanced, and the loan is made for six months and a day, but if at the expiration of that period the depositor should declare himself unable to redeem it, after another period of six months the pledges are sold, but if they yield more than the amount advanced the difference is given to the original owner. This institution is very popular. Thousands are every year suitors for the favor thus afforded by "Our Lady of Hope."

Another Miss.

A young recruit was just commencing his first course of musketry. The instructor, getting very angry with him, told him exactly what to do, and each time he missed the target. At last the instructor lost his temper and told him to take a spare round behind the butt and shoot himself with it. Presently the instructor was startled by hearing a report from a rifle behind the butt; without a moment's hesitation he rushed round to see what had occurred, when the recruit looked up from examining his rifle and said quite coolly, "It's all right; don't get alarmed; it's another miss."—London Telegraph.

STATE LOTTERIES.

Rise and Fall of a Tremendous Gamble in England.

STARTED UNDER QUEEN BESS

The First One Was "Without Any Blanks, Containing Good Prizes, as Well of Ready Money as of Plate and Certain Sorts of Marchandizes."

Though it is certain that the custom of holding lotteries was practiced in European countries as far back as the middle of the fifteenth century, it seems that this particular idea was unknown in England until more than 100 years later. The lottery, in fact, appears to have been included among those many other important things, both good and bad, that were introduced to public notice during the reign of Queen Elizabeth, it being her majesty's express command that this ready means for "raising the wind" on behalf of the state finances was adopted.

The first English lottery must have taken a good deal of arranging, owing, by doubt, to the fact that the people of that day required a certain amount of education in this form of gambling, for although the idea was first brought forward in the year 1554 (in Mary's reign), the actual drawing did not take place until three years later.

One of the original bills of Queen Elizabeth's lottery, has fortunately been preserved, printed in black letter and measuring five feet in length and one and one-half feet wide. It begins by announcing "A very rich Lottery General, without any blanks, containing a number of good prizes, as well of ready money as of plate and certain sorts of marchandizes, having been valued and priced by the commandment of the Queen's most excellent majesty, by men expert and skilful, and goes on to say that "the same lottery is erected by her majesty's order to the intent that such commodity as may chance to arise therefrom, after the charges borne, may be converted towards the reparation of the havens and strength of the Realm and toward such other publique good works." There were something like 30,000 prizes in this gigantic lottery, of which the first was of the value of £5000, while the entrance fee was only "two shillings and six pence."

James I. lent his "special favour" to a lottery whose object was "the present plantation of English colonies in Virginia," the prizes consisting of £5,000 in money, "besides rewards of civility." The tickets being drawn in a new hall built at the west end of Paul's the 20th of June, 1612. This lottery does not, however, appear to have been very popular, although we are assured by the historian that it was "plainly carried and honestly performed," for owing to the want of "diligence the number of lots there were taken out and thrown away these were thousands of blank tickets, amounting to a y one prize," certainly a very generous proceeding on the part of the promoters. The lucky man on this occasion was Thomas Sharpliff, "a Taylor of London," who won the first prize of "four thousand Crowns in fayre plate, which was sent to his house in a very stately manner." Though to some extent poorly patronized, this lottery appears to have evoked a good deal of interest among the important personages of the day, for we are told that "during the whole time of the drawing there were always present divers worshipfull knights and Esquires, accompanied with sundry grave discreet Citizens."

As time went on lotteries for every conceivable purpose were held in London and other important towns, with the inevitable result that trouble could hardly arise between the promoters and those of the ticket holders who happened to be unlucky or thought they had been unfairly treated, as no doubt many of them were. We find, therefore, that periodical orders were issued for the suppression of this form of gambling, though the law does not seem to have had any great effect. At last, however, any one proposing to hold a lottery was obliged to send in a petition to the king, and in Charles II.'s reign we find mention of several such applications. One of these was for "the ransom of English slaves in Tunis, Algiers or the Turkish galleys or for any other charitable use," the promoter making it a bargain that after he had paid in a third of the profits he should reserve the rest for his own expenses and "the repair of his fortunes, ruined by loyalty."

Lottery offices for the sale of tickets were established all over the country as time went on, but none was more famous than the agency of one Hish, who flourished at the beginning of the nineteenth century. This enterprising individual, whose chief offices were in Cornhill and at Charing Cross, must have made a considerable fortune out of the much safer business of selling tickets than taking them. But his prosperous career, as also that of his fellows, came to an abrupt end when the lottery act was passed in 1823, by which it was provided that after the drawing of the state lottery for that year there were to be no more of them.—London Globe.

REBELS DEFEAT IMPERIAL TROOPS

Outlook for a General Uprising in China the Best.

Hankow, Oct. 20.—A two-day battle between the government forces from the north and the revolutionists ended in a victory for the latter.

The rebels forced the Imperial troops to retreat to a point 10 miles north of Hankow. The loyalists gunboats dropped several miles down the river.

When the fighting ceased Wednesday evening the revolutionists took up a strong position. Reinforcements for the rebels arrived during the night, and early this morning (Thursday) a force of 5,000 commenced an advance on the Imperial encampment. This was conducted cautiously. On the march the rebels burned hundreds of huts, fearing ambush.

The Loyalist infantry made a faint show of resistance, while the Imperial gunboats threw a few shells ineffectually. The shots from the warships fell wide of the mark and failed to dislodge a Rebel field gun, which had been made the special object of attack.

When the republican scouts reached the Imperial camp they found it deserted, but, suspicious of a ruse, volleyed in all directions. Then the main body entered, waving banners and shouting in jubilation.

The Loyalist evacuation was so hurried that they left many tents and six carloads of baggage and ammunition.

The rebel army is now entrenched in the camp, which is three miles from Hankow. The Loyalists have halted 10 miles further north, where they are awaiting reinforcements.

Tonight's advances from Hankow state that the defeated Imperial troops are now entrenched on Seven Mile Creek.

One Chinese gunboat was sunk in the river by its crew, who deserted to the rebels.

Admiral Sah-Chen Ping took the other warships of the fleet down the river, as he could not trust their crews.

LOYALISTS IN RETREAT.

Messages From Hankow Tell of the Rebel Victory—Martial Law Has Been Declared There.

Shanghai, China, Oct. 20.—The following message from Vice Admiral Winslow, the senior British Naval officer at Hankow, sent by wireless from a British vessel off Hankow, was received here this morning.

"All telegraph lines to Shanghai and to Peking were destroyed by fire last night for a distance of a mile beyond the settlement."

Another wireless message despatched from Hankow at noon today, and retransmitted over the land lines at Kiu Kiang, reaching here at 4 o'clock, says that the Government troops retreated up Seven Mile Creek, while the Chinese warships retreated down the river out of sight. The Revolutionists claim a great victory.

Still another message says that the revolutionists at Hankow declare they captured the riverside and railway station, after which all the Chinese warships retreated, with the exception of one cruiser, which seceded to the rebels.

The retreat of the Imperialists at Hankow is confirmed in other dispatches from Kiu-Kiang, which state that the Chinese gunboats are retreating to Kiu-Kiang. The conduct of the rebels at Hankow is reported to be exemplary. Martial law is being enforced.

The run on the banks here has stopped, but the native banks are unable to pay their outstanding checks, and business is at a standstill. Already $5,000,000 has been lost in trade. Otherwise the situation here is quiet.

MINE DANGERS TO BE DEMONSTRATED

Washington, Oct. 21.—The actual reproduction of an explosion in a coal mine promises to be the really dramatic feature of the two days' program of the National Mine Safety Demonstration, October 30 and 31, at Pittsburgh, Pa.

The demonstration, which is under the auspices of the Bureau of Mines, the American Red Cross and the Pittsburgh Coal Operators' Association has for its purpose a friendly meeting of the mine owners, superintendents and the miners from all over the country to witness and talk over the dangers of the mines and the remedies for certain of the dangers as advocated by the Bureau of Mines.

The Bureau has long been of the opinion that coal dust in a mine was more a menace to the miner than gas and has frequently demonstrated this in an experimental steel tube, at its station Fortieth and Butler streets, Pittsburgh.

These experiments, showing how easily the coal dust becomes ignited and causes an explosion have been taken as conclusive by the great majority of mine owners and superintendents and now great precautions are being taken to keep down the coal dust in mines. The question has powerfully risen, not only in this country, but also in European coal-producing countries, whether the results obtained in the experimental tube are the same as would be found in a mine under working conditions. In order to settle this problem, and to make still more conclusive the bureau's contention that coal dust is the real danger of the mines, the bureau's engineers started the digging of a mine at Bruceton, Pa., twelve miles from Pittsburgh. The mine, which was planned to resemble many commercially operated mines in Pennsylvania and other states, is now ready for the experiments. The bad practices found in mines where the lives of men are risked will all be contained in the experimental mine, and black powder, the most dangerous explosive in dangerous mines will be used.

Most mine explosions are caused by what the miners term "blow-out" shots. That is, the explosive instead of breaking the coal, blows out through the hole drilled in the coal to contain it, sending a stream of flame into the mine. This flame generally ignites the gas or coal dust. The engineers will reproduce the "blow-out" set. They will make certain that it will be a "blow-out" set and then will watch for results.

The experiments will take place the afternoon of October 30. The next morning, at Forbes field, the baseball park, there will be friendly contests between first-aid teams of miners from nearly 100 mines. President Taft will witness this part of the program. Already more than 20,000 miners have declared their intention of witnessing the experiments. Miners in the Pittsburgh district have been granted a holiday for the 31st and the railroads have agreed upon a two-cent a mile rate within 250 miles of Pittsburgh. The Central Passenger Association has also granted excursion rates throughout its territory.

FINED FOR GOING WITHOUT A LICENSE.

Patrolman Harvey E. Stowe of Auburn came to this city today with John Zyra, who was convicted in the Auburn police court of gunning without a license. Judge Alfred D. Emery of Auburn imposed a fine of $5 and costs amounting to $18. Zyra was committed to the Rockingham county jail.

TIMELY BREVITIES ANOTHER DELAY IN BALL SERIES

Philadelphia, Oct. 20.—The fourth game in the series between the Glants and the Athletics has been postponed for the third time. There was a drizzle of rain all night and there were no signs of a letup at 9:30 this morning, so the umpires, after a look at the Shibe Park Diamond, declared the contest off for the day.

The National Commission arrived here from New York at 11 o'clock only to find that the postponement had been decided on after they left New York. Messrs. Herrmann, John S. H. and Lynde returned to New York on the 1 o'clock train.

Mr. Johnson said to the reporters that hereafter the post-season series will be opened about two weeks earlier than has been the practice heretofore, and that the chances of bad weather for the series would be greatly reduced.

"The present long intermission between games on account of rain is very depressing," said the president of the American League, "and next season an earlier start will be made. Both leagues are now agreed upon this question. The American League can easily finish its schedule of 154 games by Oct 1 or 2, and we will then be ready to start the post-season series at once."

"The National League is now agreed that it can do the same. I have contended all along that the series between representatives of the two leagues should begin earlier, and now that the National League is agreed upon this point, the post-season series hereafter will be opened about Oct. 3 or 4."

LECTURE ON LIFE IN RUSSIA

The second lecture at Association Hall by Hon. Herbert H. D. Peirce, was held on Friday evening, and there was a good crowd present. Mr. Peirce on Wednesday was to have spoken on Diplomatic Life in Russia, but was forced to change at the last minute and lectured on Norway in its place. Last evening he gave his lecture on Diplomatic Life in Russia, and it was one of the most brilliant and interesting addresses heard here for a long time. Mr. Peirce, while in the diplomatic service was stationed as a secretary in Russia for several years, and in that time mastered the language. He was there during the most stirring times and in a most interesting manner related the events of the days. He has a fine collection of pictures, including the royal family, and gave some inside history of the social life at court, especially during and after the court mourning for Alexander III, who was assassinated.

PICKPOCKET DEPOSITS BAIL

When the name of Michael Londer was read in superior court on the charge of attempted larceny from the person yesterday afternoon he was announced defaulted. The county has $500 of his bail money. His return to fight the case is not expected. Londer was arrested in the railroad station of the Boston and Maine railroad on the charge of attempting to pick the pocket of a travelling salesman. The salesman testified in police court that he found one of Londer's hands in one of his pockets. William E. Marvin of this city represented Londer in police court but Mr. Marvin is said not to have heard from him since. A friend of Londer's came to this city and furnished bail.

$3.50 Recipe Free, For Weak Men.

Send Name and Address Today—You Can Have It Free and Be Strong and Vigorous.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, weakened manhood, falling memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, unnatural drains or the follies of youth, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power and virility, quickly and quietly should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope to any man who will write me for it. This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men and I am convinced it is the surest acting combination for the cure of deficient manhood and vigor failure ever put together. I think I owe it to my fellow men to send them a copy in confidence so that any man anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop dragging himself with harmful patent medicines, secured what I believe is the quickest-acting, restorative, upbuilding, spot-toughening remedy ever devised, and so cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: "Dr. A. B. Robinson, 4724 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this splendid recipe in a plain ordinary envelope, free of charge. A great many doctors would charge $1.00 to $5.00 for writing out a prescription like this. But I send it entirely free."

STATES IMPORTANT WITNESS IS HERE.

County Solicitor Ernest L. Guptill, today, denied a report that one of the state's witnesses in the case of Giovanni Ceruti, indicted for manslaughter, had fled to Europe. Mr. Guptill said that the man appeared before the grand jury and that he is now in Epping. The man is said to have stood upon the shore of Star pond when the boat was capsized and Baldini drowned.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Proof of Deception.

"Jones," said the bank president to his confidential secretary, "have the cashier shadowed tonight and do not let him leave the city on any pretext. I shall have his accounts examined before morning."

"Yes, sir," responded the secretary imperturbably.

"He pretends to have grown up in a country village," the president continued, "and yet I overheard him retelling the story of a ball game which occurred in this village when he was a young man, and the score was 3 to 2. Now, that proves that he was brought up in a large city and never was in a village overnight. And if he would deceive us about his youth who knows what he would do with our funds?"

"But what is there in his baseball story to show that he never lived in the country?"

"Why, baseball scores in the country are always about 50 to 15 or something like that!"—Buffalo Express.

A Bad Witness.

A small Scottish boy was summoned to give evidence against his father, who was accused of making disturbances on the street. Said the magistrate to him:

"Come, my wee man, speak the truth and let us know all ye ken about this affair."

"Weel, sir," said the lad, "d'ye ken Inverness street?"

"I do, Innie," replied his worship.

"Weel, ye gang along it and turn into the square and cross the square?"

"Yes, yes," said the judge encouragingly.

"An' when ye gang across the square ye turn to the right and up into High street an' keep on up High street till ye come to a house."

"Quite right, my Innie, proceed," said his worship.

"I ken the old pump well."

"Weel," said the boy, with the most infantile simplicity, "ye binny gang an' pump it, for ye'll no pump me."—Ides.

Where Lucresia's Erred.

Lucresia Borghis considered herself uncommonly expert in detecting vegetable poisons.

Having resolved upon giving a family dinner party she went out into the fields and along by the purring brook and gathered, as she supposed, enough tondostools to poison a regiment.

But, alas! Her boasted knowledge was the usual sham, and that night she fed her guests on a peck of the tondostools they ever inslaid.

Lucresia waited around several days for the mortuary returns to come in and then took to her bed and died of ingrowing chagrin. —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Mother's Morning Prayer.

"Edith, do you say your prayers every morning?" asked the Sunday school teacher.

"No, teacher, I don't pray every morning, but my mamma does," said little Edith.

"And what prayer does your good mamma say?" asked the teacher.

"She says, 'Oh, Lord, how I hate to get up!'"—National Monthly.

Papa's Prayer.

The Garasides returned home from the mobstabus one day last week. Next morning the little daughter of the family announced:

"I heard papa say his prayers last night."

"What did he say, dear?"

"He said, 'Thank God for this bed!'"—Newark News.

How It Happened.

"How did you lose your husband?" asked the stranger of the woman up north.

"We were out in the woods together," said she sadly, "and I called him 'dear,' and before he could answer me some citty fellow shot him by mis take."—Detroit Free Press.

Needed an Excuse.

Puffles—Are there lots of mosquitoes about here?

Real Estate Agent—Not one.

Puffles—Then I can't take the place. My wife will let me smoke only when the mosquitoes are bothering her.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Practiced, but Not Perfect.

Jack—I'll be frank with you. You are not the first girl I've kissed by any means.

Maude—And I'll be equally frank with you. You have a great deal to learn even at that.—Boston Transcript.

Economical.

Husband—You are not economical.

Wife—Well, if you didn't call a woman economical who saves her wedding dress for a possible second marriage I'd like to know what you think economy is like?—Glasgow Times.

One on the Teacher.

Teacher—Why, Willie, don't you know what cloth is? What is your coat made of?

Willie—Father's old trousers.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

At Chautauque Co.

Their chauffeur seems a sober, careful fellow.

"Well, for the wages they pay they can't well expect anything else."—Puck.

SOLITAIRE HIS WIFE'S HOBBY; SEEKS DIVORCE

"Solitaire so engrossed my wife's attention that for a year she would not get any meals for me and I had to do all the cooking," declared Reuben O. Colburn of the South End in the divorce session yesterday at Boston in the trial of his libel for divorce from Abbie B. Colburn.

"From the time she got up in the morning there was nothing but solitaire. If the bell rang, she might jump up to answer it, only to fly back again to the solitaire game. She was so enamored with the cards I could not get any meals."

"Four years ago she suddenly left me for no cause that I know of. Since then I have kept house, cooked all my meals and kept the place cleaned up."

When another witness testified that he had not seen Mrs. Colburn at her husband's house for four years, Judge Hardy asked, "Did he ever ask you to taste his cooking?" "No, sir," answered the witness. Divorce was asked for desertion.

Judge Hardy had the libellee defaulted.

"I am going to open a laundry in Sweden. I had rather do that than return to strange America." So wrote Anno L. Tornburg, late of Lynn, now of Sweden, to her husband, Knute Tornburg, according to his testimony in the divorce session yesterday.

CITY CLERK COREY PREVENTS RUNAWAY MAIN COUPLE FROM MARRYING

City Clerk Corey recently gave an awful blow to a pair of victims of Cupid when he blocked a runaway marriage by putting the matter up to the father or the would be bride who with her sweetheart hails from Gardner, Me. The girl, a daughter of a prominent clergyman of that city and her lover made application by mail for an intention blank, which she filed out and returned to City Hall. A glance at the document aroused suspicion. The bride gave as an acknowledgment a "high school student" and her age as 16.

The groom aged 19 said he was a shoemaker. The whole thing looked queer, and the clerk taking quick notice that the father of the prospective bride was a minister, wrote a hurried communication to the family home. The parents nearly fainted as they gazed on the marriage intention, which accompanied the letter and lost no time to tell the City clerk that the plan to elope was nipped in the bud and the girl still in the High school was not quite 15 years of age.

No wedding bells for them, not this year.

OLD FASHIONED HUSKING BEE

All roads in North Kittery lead to the residence of Daniel O. Seavards on the Wentworth farm where nearly two hundred people gathered to enjoy an old fashioned "Husking Bee." Over 350 bushels of the hard grain met the gaze of the merry party as they arrived at the homestead and on which they immediately got to work and cleaned up in jig time. Following the husking the party enjoyed a barn dance and harvest supper. The guests came from Portsmouth, Rochester, York, Elliot, Newington and Kittery Point.

The boys of the Y. M. C. A. to the number of twenty-five headed by Athletic Instructor C. D. Howard, went to the Beane farm, Newington, today for an outing. The trip was made on bicycles and a short parade about the city preceded the ride to Newington. Upon arrival at the Beane farm baseball and football was enjoyed. Miss Beane assisted in serving the boys a fine lunch and the day was most thoroughly enjoyed.

Concrete work was started by the contractors on Market street today.

I WONDER

Why George anchors his bicycle with that battleship chain?
If there was not some tall spurring for ball players on Friday night?
If the football fan was satisfied with what he got today?

Why the Boston and Maine railroad don't run a few more of those cute rate trips to Boston?

Why such a trip once a month would not be welcomed by the public and beneficial to the the railroad?

If the sailors ball on Friday night and Saturday morning would not put one in mind of the old time "Shindies"?

If everybody who attended did not have the time of their life?

If the jacksies don't know how to produce the genuine amusement?

When the Glimblet club will have that "Snipping Bee"?

If there is not some class to that club every minute?

What the "axe" train and the Boston and Maine plucking board will do in Portsmouth?

If the appointment of Michael E. Long as a trustee of the Soldiers' Home is not as good as could be made?

If Mac has offered any big money for the runaway pig?

Why he don't try the lasso joke on the porker?

Why the North Church curfew rings at 9:05 and 9:10 p.m., a good part of the time?

What has hit the City hall heating system?

When the fire department will get their skills to be used in loading the apparatus on the cars?

How many went to the docks to get a look at the submarine boat after she had gone?

How the boys will like that trip to Cuba on the gunboat Paducah?

If they are not sailors after this cruise, if they ever will be?
